PREDICT COLD SNAP FOR OHIO TUESDAY

Temperatures May Slink to Freezing Point, Say Prognosticators.

Prepare for another cold snap was the warning sent out today by weather bureau officials who predicted that snow flurries would follow in the wake of the intermittent rain showers throughout the state today.

Temperatures in northern Ohio will sink close to the freezing point tonight, and tomorrow, while the central and southern sections of the state will be forced to watch the mercury drop to about 30 degrees, it was presaged.

The snow flurries will be light, weathermen predicted, and will not blanket the ground with snow. The snow will probably melt as quickly as it touches the earth.

Contrary to forecasts, rainfall of .08 inches was recorded here yesterday and last night, interfering considerably with the display of new Easter clothes.

The mercury ranged between a high of 63 yesterday and a low of 50 last night. A year ago the high was 61, the low 40.

NEW YORK, April 21—The Right Rev. James Matthew Maxon, bishop coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Tennessee, was to see his son today.

Yesterday, for the first time in 2[illegible] years in which he did not celebrate the Easter communion, the chief festival of the year in his church, the bishop was unable to greet young Jon Maxon, who will be accused Wednesday in homicide court of the killing of David Painter, [illegible] painter. The clergyman hurried here from Tennessee to aid his son in his fight for life but a prison rule barring Sunday visitors forced the bishop to spend the day in the home of George Patten, a wealthy friend.

NAVY PACT FINALE SET FOR TUESDAY

Armament Limitation Treaty To Be Ready for Signatures of Envoys.

By the Associated Press

LONDON, April 21—Announcement was made at St. James' palace this evening that the last plenary session of the five-power naval conference would be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow. The treaty drawn up here, a three-power limitation pact with some five-power sections, will be signed at that time.

On the strength of the announcement the American delegation here began to conclude their sailing arrangements for the trip back home aboard the Leviathan, which may be held at Southampton until Wednesday morning for them.

The American delegation will be the first to sign the historic document, Colonel Stimson as its head leading off. The powers will sign according to their English alphabetic order, America, France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan. Following Colonel Stimson will be Ambassador Dawes, Secretary Adams, Senator Robinson, Senator Reed, and Ambassadors Gibson and Morrow.

The heads of the five delegations to the naval conference met today and formally approved the draft of the treaty which was then sent to the printers.

Those present were Secretary Stimson, Prime Minister MacDonald, Reijiro Wakatsuki, Ambassador Fleuriau of France and Ambassador Bordonaro of Italy. The two ambassadors officiated in the absence of their chiefs.

It was stated that the full text of the treaty would run about 10,000 words.

Final Repudiation Regarded as Virtually Sure as Result of Committee Action.

NO HEARING IS GRANTED

Judiciary Group Declines To Invite Nominee To Appear at Session.

WASHINGTON, April 21—The nomination of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina to be an associate justice of the United States supreme court was reported unfavorably today by the senate judiciary committee, which voted 10 to 6 to reject Parker's appointment.

The committee first declined to invite the jurist before it to explain his attitude toward organized labor and the Negro race. Then the nomination was debated behind closed doors for an hour and the vote taken on reporting it to the senate. The result was announced by Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, chairman.

No Precedent, Is Belief

This was the first time within the memory of the senate's oldest attaches that a nomination for the supreme court was reported unfavorably by the judiciary committee.

The repudiation of Parker by the committee, which is composed of the senate's outstanding lawyers, was attributed to his being unfriendly to Negroes and to union labor.

The jurist's friends were unable to explain a statement attributed to Parker while he was a candidate for governor of North Carolina some years ago that he would resign if elected by a single Negro vote.

Cause of Labor Opposition

Organized labor fought him on the ground that his decision, upholding "Yellow Dog" contracts against union labor in West Virginia's mines had made "serfs" out of the workers.

The unfavorable report by the committee virtually insured rejection of the nomination by the senate. There has been no time in recent history when the senate reversed such a recommendation by the judiciary committee.

Previous Report Reversed

By its decision the full committee reversed a report from a subcommittee which recommended that the appointment be confirmed. The subcommittee report was presented by Senator Overman, Democrat, of North Carolina, its chairman. Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, however, filed a minority report from the subcommitte recommending rejection and the full committee adopted the Idaho senator's recommendation.

Only four senators wished to give Parker a hearing. The vote on inviting him was 10 to four against it. Senators Norris, Borah and Walsh, Democrat, Montana, said previously

HOOVER'S APPEAL GETTING RESULTS

Construction Contracts For First Quarter of Year Show Large Increase.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—Construction contracts totaling more than $303,900,000 awarded during the first three months of the year were interpreted by administration officials today as reflecting the appeal of President Hoover for increased building as a means of business stabilization.

The total was announced by Secretary Lamont of the commerce department with a statement that it was the highest for that period in five years and an increase of 55 per cent over the first quarter of 1929.

Contracts for public buildings totaled $32,227,000 as compared with $24,315,000 in the corresponding period of last year. Lighting systems awarded contracts aggregating $20,455,000 as against $5,864,000 in the first quarter of 1929, an increase of 249 per cent.

An increase of 125 per cent was noted in railroad construction, the figures being $70,648,000 for the first three months of this year and $30,975,000 for the same period of last year. Contracts for hospital and institutional construction moved upward from $22,565,000 last year to $28,264,000 this year.

Contracts for park development gained 127 per cent, waterfront development 73 per cent, water supply systems 70 per cent, incinerators 60 per cent and bridges 47 per cent.

Decreases of 35 per cent in the construction of railways, 28 per cent in park buildings, 14 per cent in sewerage systems and three per cent in educational buildings were reported. Residential building lagged behind last year by 45 per cent, commercial buildings were 15 per cent off and industrial buildings 27 per cent less than a year ago.

LINDBERGHS SET NEW RECORD

NOTED COUPLE IN LONG FLIGHT

Col. Lindbergh and Wife Finish Transcontinental Trip in Record Time.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 21—"We have another record, a cross continent flight faster than anybody else."

Taking off from Glendale, Calif., just at daybreak, Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh yesterday brought their new brilliant scarlet and black monoplane to a three point landing on Roosevelt Field, where the colonel took off for Paris three years ago this spring. The arrival was 18 minutes before the day was done.

The approximate distance flown was 2,700 miles, the flying time 14 hours, 23 minutes, 27 seconds, the average speed 172 miles an hour. A stop was made at Wichita, Kan., of 22 minutes and five seconds for fuel, but not food. Lunch prepared at Los Angeles was eaten in the air.

Disclaims Record

Although the colonel disclaimed any new record, the time of the flight was three hours, 15 minutes and 20 seconds faster than it ever had been flown before. Captain Frank Hawks, last June 29, flew from Glendale to Roosevelt Field in 17 hours, 38 minutes and 36 seconds, non-stop. The fact that he and Mrs. Lindbergh made a stop, the colonel pointed out, technically made their flight not one to compare with that of Captain Hawks. Captain Hawks himself however, and probably every one else except the colonel accepted the flight as a new record.

Two miles and more in the air much of the way, they had flying helmets as Easter bonnets.

They left Glendale at 8:26:20 a. m. (Eastern standard time), landed at Wichita at 3:20:30 p. m., took off at 3:42:35 and landed at Roosevelt Field at 11:11:52. The total elapsed time was 14 hours, 45 minutes and 32 seconds.

Commercial Route Test

Colonel Lindbergh, who made the flight to test the possibility of commercial routes at high altitudes, believes that such flights will follow along the trail he blazed across the country.

"This is only one flight," he said, "and I hope to make others. I can say nothing at this time on the result of only one experiment. However, I believe transport flying in the future

Dallas township, in Crawford county, showed a decline of 60 in this year's census from that of 1920, a population of 437 being reported as compared to 497 in 1920. Jackson township, in Crawford county, returned 356 as its census figure. Its 1920 count is not available, since Crestline's figure was included in the township's 1920 census.

RETURN TO FIRST MURDER SUSPECT

Washington Police Again Quiz Wilson Regarding Mary Baker Death.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 21—The police today returned to their first suspect in their efforts to solve the mystery of the death of Mary Baker, young government employe, who was assaulted and murdered more than a week ago near Arlington national cemetery.

Fred Wilson, an architect in the employ of the treasury department, who was the first man arrested in connection with the crime, was again brought into police headquarters for questioning on the alibi which he offered and on his relations with the dead woman.

Meanwhile, the authorities still were holding Mervin Sisson and Julian Gallegher, traveling salesman of Warsaw, Va., who were arrested over the week-end. They were of the opinion, however, that alibis of the two could not be shaken in spite of the fact that Sisson was identified yesterday by a laborer as having been near the scene of the crime on the night that it occurred.

From a lineup of four men, Charles Quartermous, foreman of a government dredging crew at work in the nearby Potomac river picked out Sisson as the man from whom he had purchased an overcoat and a watch on the night of the murder.

Another laborer who was with Quartermous at the time of the transaction failed to identify Sisson. The driver of a bus line which skirts the national cemetery also could not identify Sisson as the man whom he picked up near the scene of the murder at the approximate time of its commission.

A ten-day cleanup campaign which will encompass all Marion county got under way this morning.

One of the most intensive cleanups ever staged in the city will be worked in connection with county officials, village mayors and councils and township trustees.

Between today and May 1, the committee in charge of the cleanup campaign hope to haul away tons of rubbish, beautify streets and highways and give the entire county a thorough housecleaning.

Fred Scheff, chairman of the employment committee, reported two dozen workmen were placed on cleanup jobs this morning, and that between 40 and 50 workmen registered at his offices. FARMER DIES IN KENTON

Seven Admitted to Marion City Hospital; Two Taken to Galion; 10 Die in State.

A Cleveland woman, Mrs. Ronald Fate, 23, died this afternoon at City hospital, and Ulysses G. Kimmell, 65, of near Dunkirk in Hardin county, died at McKitrick hospital in Kenton yesterday, as a result of injuries sustained in Easter traffic accidents. Eight others were killed in Ohio over the week end, Associated Press reports today stated.

Besides the two persons killed in the vicinity of Marion 14 others were injured and a score more were injured in various sections of the state. Seven traffic victims were admitted to Marion city hospital yesterday. Two were taken to a Galion hospital and others received treatment at offices of physicians.

Dies This Afternoon

Mrs. Fate, the mother of an eight month old baby, died at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon in City hospital. She never regained consciousness following an automobile accident about 10:45 o'clock yesterday morning on the Claridon pk., east of the intersection with the Sandusky Columbus highway.

Mrs. Fate died of a fractured skull. Surviving her are her husband, who escaped with minor bruises, and her eight-month old baby. Mr. Fate's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fate, of Mt. Gilead, whom the accident victims had been visiting, prior to the accident, were at the hospital when Mrs. Fate died. No funeral arrangements have been made. The body was taken to the C. E. Curtis Co. mortuary, East Center st., to await arrangements.

Ulysses G. Kimmel died in McKitrick hospital at Kenton Sunday from a fractured skull sustained at midnight Saturday when the buggy in which he was riding was struck by an automobile driven by Lawrence Haas, 25, of Dunkirk.

Kimmel was returning home from Dunkirk on the Dunkirk-Patterson rd. when the accident occurred. Haas, the driver of the car, said that the Kimmel buggy did not carry a light and was on the wrong side of the road. Haas' car was wrecked but the driver escaped.

Car Crashes

A few minutes after Kimmel's body had been removed from the wreckage, Garner Shuler Forest, drove his car into the ditch to avoid hitting the wreckage of the buggy and auto. He sustained a cut on the head.

Kimmel was taken to Dunkirk by Haas and another motorist and later removed to McKitrick hospital at Kenton where he died.

He was born in Wyandot county and is survived by one brother and four sisters. Funeral services will be held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Kemper Bros. funeral home in Dunkirk.

The extent of injuries received by Mrs. S. S. Hardy, wife of the Rev. S. S. Hardy, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, in an accident at Medina yesterday, is not known here today. The Schaffner-Queen ambulance went to Medina this afternoon to bring Mrs. Hardy to Marion.

Mrs. Fate was injured when the machine in which she was riding collided with a machine driven by Earl Patton, of Agosta.

Harold Rae, 131 Campbell st., and Earl Patton, of Agosta, were going east on the pike in a sedan headed towards Mt. Gilead, about 10:45 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Fate, who had been visiting Mr. Fate's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Fate, of Mt. Gilead, were driving to Marion.

CAPONE ADMITTED

Court Order Permits "Scarface Al" to Enter Florida.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., April 21—Having arrived quietly under protection of a federal injunction, Alphonse Capone, Chicago racketeer, was back at his Palm Island estate today "for a rest which I think I deserve."

An injunction granted by United States Judge Halstead L. Ritter cleared a path through Florida for Capone's approach to Miami by restraining sheriffs of 20 counties from molesting him without a warrant. Governor Carlton previously had issued instructions to all of the state's sheriffs to arrest Capone and escort him to the state line should he appear in Florida.

"I have no interest in politics, neither in Chicago nor Miami," Capone said, "and I am here for a rest which I think I deserve. All that I want is a fair break. I have done nothing in violation of the law in Miami and will not. All I wish is to be left alone and enjoy the home which I have purchased here."

This ugly shell of a house was the eye-sore of the neighborhood, yet was easily transformed into the beautiful dwelling pictured at the top. No house is hopeless when an experienced architect or contractor is given full sway.

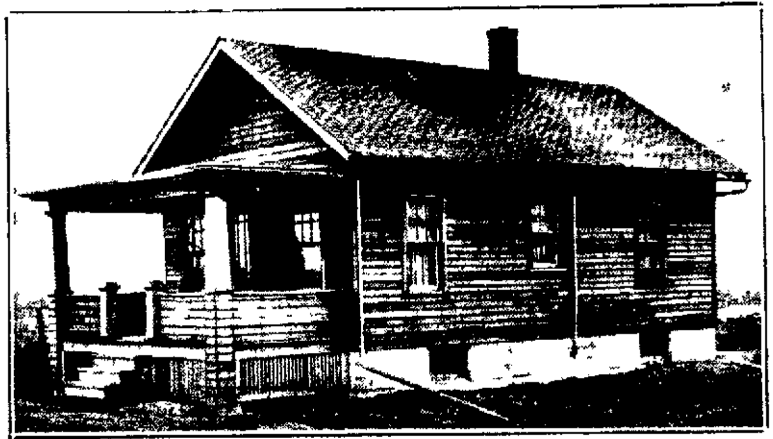
HOME-BUILT HOUSE IS CHEAPER



HOW a Marion resident learned that a "ready-cut" house might be purchased in Marion at a real saving was told today by J. A. Slanser, president of the Slanser Lumber & Coal Co. This house in the rough and not yet painted is shown in the above illustration.

The owner of this home first came to the lumber dealer with a catalog in his hand. This was what this prospective customer had read in a catalog: A beautiful five room bungalow marvelously priced and remarkably designed. The price covers single construction which includes outside walls covered with siding instead of shingles. The customer was about ready to place the order because he did not think the work could be done in Marion at a comparable cost. The Slanser Lumber & Coal Co. guaranteed to meet the catalog estimation, but when the work was completed it was found that there was a saving of about $110.

Every bit of material for this home was purchased in Marion. All construction work was done by Marion workmen. Every bit of material that went into the house was backed by a local guarantee and all at a real saving. The house is now completed and when painted will present a very attractive low priced home.

"Don't be misled," says Mr. Slanser. "Any local lumber yard is ready to meet competition and the only safe plan is to first get a local estimate for the work you have in mind. You will get better materials, better workmanship and a far more satisfactory job if you place the contract with Marion builders. Best of all there will be a real saving in dollars for you."

Hardwood Flooring Adds Much Beauty to Houses

While striving to give character to the outside lines of your home do not overlook the interior. It needs modernization also. Hardwood floors may be laid over your present floors room by room in just a few days—disturbing you scarcely at all.

It seems strange that the old time builders did not include hardwood floors in their plans, so permanent and satisfactory are they. But this lack of use was probably due to a mistaken idea of economy.

Hardwood Is Economical

Hardwood floors are not [illegible] even in first cost. You can buy them for less than lots of perishable floor coverings—and they will cost you relatively little more than softer woods.

For upkeep and permanence there is no comparison. Time stands still for hardwood floors. Like fine old furniture they grow more beautiful with age. Easy to keep clean, smooth and dustproof, they have many advantages. They may be finished in any style and color.

These floors may be kept clean by sweeping with a dry woolly floor brush. At intervals they may be washed with soap and water. Oil mops should not be used as the oil often leaves dirty streaks which are difficult to remove.

Harmon Nursery To Beautify Cemeteries

Two orders just received by the Harmon Nursery of Prospect call for the ornamentation of cemeteries in this vicinity. St. Mary's Cemetery of Marion is to be improved by the planting of fully fifty rods of Barberry Hedge. This hedge will run along the front and south sides.

The beautiful American Legion Memorial monument at LaRue is to be furnished with a very elaborate planting of evergreens and shrubs. The monument itself is of the finest Georgia white marble.

GANGSTER GUN TAKES 3 LIVES

Slaying in "Blue Hour" Saloon Casts Doubt on Chicago "Peace Pact"

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 21.—The Blue … saloon … stranger … saw a triple slaying early … turned.

One man entered the speakeasy, … a dollar bill on the bar and ordered beer. Few minutes later he ran out, the beer untouched, change from his dollar bill still on the bar and three dead men on the sawdust floor.

Walter Wakefield, the … lay dead behind the bar. A bullet had struck him in the back of the head.

Frank Del Re, sometimes called Frank Dore, … also had been shot in the back, apparently as he sought to flee.

Joseph Special, … partner of Del Re in the operation of the grocery, lay dead in front of the bar. He had been shot in the chest as the assassin turned to meet his attack. In one dead hand Special … a knife. In the other gripped like a club was the bust of a plaster saint.

All Capone Allies

Detectives saw the murders as a score against the Al Capone gang, for the three dead men were Capone disciples. They saw the crime both as a refutation to the reported peace agreement in gangland and as a challenge to the Capone overlordship.

There were political and labor racketeering angles too, the racketeering possibilities being regarded as particularly significant in view of persistent word lately that Capone had ambitions to "muscle" into labor organizations.

Wakefield, police heard, was a protege of Dan Serritella, city sealer and Republican power in the first ward. Serritella has been regarded as friendly to Capone. Wakefield and Del Re were active in the recent election in Serritella's successful campaign for committeeman.

When Del Re and Special reopened the Blue Hour saloon a week ago it was bombarded with bricks. It was apparent that someone had warned Del Re against opening, for Del Re, viewing the shattered glass, was heard to say: "To the devil with them. They can't stop us."

It was a simple matter for police to reconstruct yesterday's crime. Wakefield behind the bar was counting the day's receipts. Del Re was behind the cigar counter. The assassin knocked at the locked door. The fact that he was admitted indicated he was known there.

Swift Action

He walked to the bar, tossed out a dollar bill and ordered beer. Wakefield drew it and handed the man his change from the stack of quarters on the counter. He then turned back to counting the receipts. The man whipped out a pistol and fired one shot into the back of Wakefield's head.

Del Re, unarmed, sought safety in flight. He leaped over the cigar counter and ran for the door. A part of his cuff link, torn from his sleeve as he vaulted the counter, was found on the floor. The slayer dropped him as he had dropped Wakefield with a bullet in the base of the brain.

Special had been in a rear room. He too was unarmed but he snatched up a clasp knife, seized a plaster saint and rushed upon the killer from behind. The mirror behind the bar revealed him and the assassin whirled, firing into Special's chest.

PRISON GUARD IS SUSPENDED

Three Ohio Pen Prisoners In Solitary Confinement for Escape Attempt.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Apr. 21.—An Ohio penitentiary guard was under suspension and three convicts were in solitary confinement today as a result of an attempted escape Saturday night.

The guard, Martin Geoghan, was charged with having been absent from his post when the trio sawed their way to the outside of the cell block. Warden P. E. Thomas said his investigation revealed that a lock on the … door … have been filed several … ago and he planned to question … guards to determine why the defective lock had not been noticed.

The prisoners, James Scott, serving … years for shooting to kill; John Nichols, serving 10 to 25 years for robbery, and Charles Tremlinger, serving 6 to 7 years for larceny, were caught by Guard C. A. Thompson. They surrendered without resistance.

Thomas said that Geoghan permitted prisoners to go to the end of the cell block to eat their lunch, thus permitting the prisoners to leave the cell unnoticed. A file and two saws were found in the empty cell and the warden was trying to learn how the men obtained them.

The trio belonged to Company K, noted for its large number of desperate criminals.

Everybody makes a mistake once in awhile when buying, whether it be shoes or furniture, or something else.

It is very easy to make mistakes when buying furniture. There is too much of it made that LOOKS good when you buy it, but you soon find out that there were about a dozen reasons why you should not have bought it.

This class of furniture, made by a certain type of factories, is bought by and sold by a certain type of stores—unfortunately.

The best safeguard is to know your store. Be sure you know of the reputation for dependability of the store you intend to patronize. Shop around! You are going to live with your furniture a long time. All that we ask is that you include Schaffner's when you are looking around.

GIVES $3.50 TRUSS TO RUPTURED MEN

Pay No Money, Now or Ever, For This Truss, Says Doctor-Inventor

Kansas City, Mo.—To help introduce an easy method that has helped thousands upon thousands of people, Dr. Andrew Kaiser, well-known Hernia Expert, offers to give a $3.50 truss to any one with reducible rupture. His newer method does away with leg straps, elastic belts and cruel binding springs. Many people, some with very bad ruptures, have declared it brought them quick improvement and freedom from the hampering and discomfort of previous truss wearing. By its proper holding it gives Nature a chance to strengthen and build up the weakened tissues and muscles and thus has assisted in the relief of many people. The method is sent on 30 days trial. If it does not help—return it with no cost for the trial. The $3.50 truss is yours just for making this trial. Take advantage of this offer. Write today to Dr. Andrew Kaiser, 7112 Koch Bldg., 2906 Main st., Kansas City, Mo. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he may refer.—Adv.

STORAGE HOLDINGS REPORT FAVORABLE

Meat and Egg Stocks Present Encouraging Outlook for Ohio Farmers.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., April 21—Cold storage holdings have become more favorable for farmers with all the important meat prices held in smaller [illegible] and with the butter situation much improved, according to the weekly report of the Ohio Farm Bureau issued here today. The report states that holdings of dressed poultry are still large although March consumption has been fairly favorable. Egg holdings are large for too early date in the season. A reasonable volume of food supplies in storage steadies the [illegible] meat, [illegible] and poultry and butter and egg markets so that prices [illegible] change as much as when supplies are low.

Butter in storage declined 26,000,000 pounds according to government figures during the month of March while a year ago the March decline was only 1,500,000 pounds which indicates that the butter situation is much improved. And further according to the report April accumulations up to date are showing a decline as compared with an increase last year. The egg holdings are reported at 2,183,000 cases of 30 dozens each on the first of April as compared with 770,000 cases last year. This is a large supply of eggs for only the first of April but the accumulations for the past week have not maintained the increase, apparently. The lay of eggs this year may be early and production may fall off rather rapidly after a few weeks so that by the end of the season the volume of eggs in storage may not be excessive.

If egg production should continue at the present high rate egg prices may decline after a month or so. Storers of eggs may become frightened if supplies increase to a dangerous volume and withdraw from the market with the result that prices might drop below the present low levels.

March poultry consumption was favorable but there is still an uncomfortably large amount of dressed poultry in storage.

The Stars Say--

For Monday, April 21

MONDAY'S astrological map shows brilliant prospects for many new ventures and achievements with splendid auguries for success and prosperity. Negotiations and agreements with large corporations, combines or mergers are especially encouraged and these may lead far afield from old conditions and attachments, having a decided influence on the personal as well as business life.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of splendid prospects with success and prosperity promised especially in negotiations and contracts with large enterprises or organizations wherein secret agreements and diplomatic relations are involved. These may call for important change in environment and in the personal contacts and private life.

A child born on this day may have many endowments for success and high position in life, especially in connection with large corporations, combines, secret societies or in diplomatic circles. It should be industrious and faithful as well as brilliant and talented.

WORKER STRESSES GARDEN PLANTING

School Nutritionist To Take Up Program To Aid Poor Families in Marion.

Miss Esther Tress, school nutritionist, is stressing home gardening this year. She believes that those persons who received the city's charity last year will be better off physically and financially next fall if they are active in planting gardens this spring.

Not only will these people have fresh healthy vegetables for the summer but there will be food for canning in the fall. According to Miss Tress there were but two or three of the city's charity cases this winter who had had gardens last summer.

Miss Tress will talk up her idea of gardening through her classes in the school.

LAST NIGHT at the THEATERS

"Vagabond King" at Palace Five Days

WHAT a man will do for only a rose! Francois Villon, king of the Paris vagabonds defeated the Burgundians saved the throne of Louis XI and was willing to hang for just that—only a rose.

The Vagabond King at the Palace five days including Thursday and starring Dennis King is a beautiful all technicolor talking picture from the play "If I Were King" and the operetta "The Vagabond King."

Dennis King is a vibrant lusty Villon with the swagger and swank of a man who rules the Paris underworld and yet humble in the presence of the woman he loves Katherine, niece of Louis XI.

The camera wasn't at all kind to Jeanette MacDonald in this picture. In "The Love Parade" she was beautiful but there were some shots in this picture when she wasn't at all the gorgeous blond.

O P Heggie as Louis XI does some fine acting. His lines afforded many laughs for the audiences that jammed the Palace theater last night. There's comedy too when Villon wakens to find himself King of France for seven days.

Daily Proverb—"He never was a friend who ceased to be so for a slight cause."

A Cleveland girl and her best young man have agreed to marry when the Cleveland Indians win the pennant. We'll say that impatience isn't a characteristic of either.

Census Tooken" is the name given a baby at Athens, Georgia, and "Enumerator" is the name of another born down in Savannah in the same state while the census-taker was making his call. Anyway, such names indicate that the list of Lindberghs and Byrds is about complete.

The United States circuit court of appeals in Philadelphia has upheld the decision of the federal court in Pittsburgh which revoked the citizenship of John Tapolcoanyi, a member of the Communist party, who has resided for seventeen years in America, holding against the admittance of Communists to American citizenship. Here's a case where law and good horse sense took the same course.

It would be some real job to even make a guess at what will be said of Mr. Wickersham's statement, that it may be found desirable to modify the dry laws to secure the maximum abstinence from the use of liquor. The name of those who "knew all the time that he was wet" will now be legion.

In "My Life," the autobiography of Leon Trotzky, the former head of the bolshevik army, refers to Stalin as the most conspicuous mediocrity of the party and, grouping him with his aides, says of all of them: "Such men are at the helm, riding the ebbing wave of revolution." Leon had better exercise care that something isn't dropped into his soup.

It's not so surprising that the Georgia Federation of Labor overwhelmingly voted last week to table a resolution favoring modification of the prohibition law to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer. Above all others, the wage-earners of the land have profited through the operation of the prohibition law.

The same day the Italian submersible, Des Meneys, made a new depth record of 400 feet, the Italian light cruiser, Nicoloso da Recco, broke the world speed record for ships, that of the French destroyer, Bison, of 41.2 miles an hour, by traveling 41.594 miles an hour on her speed test run. It's the rare occurrence when a nation makes two world records in a day.

The senate and house conferees have eliminated from the tariff bill the Harrison amendment, the purpose of which was to bar to members of congress the courtesy of the board. Trunk-makers will take notice that there still will be demand for their nonleakable product, and govern themselves accordingly.

Another Air Record Shattered.

Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh made a one-stop flight across the continent, Sunday, to test the possibilities of using the higher air current for fast express and passenger planes, leaving Glendale, California, at 8:26:20 in the morning and reaching Roosevelt field at 11:11:52 Sunday night.

Thus it is to be assumed that there is merit in the use of altitudes higher than are now utilized in cross-country flights for, flying at an average height of two miles and at times attaining an altitude of over 15,000 feet, they made the trip across the country in fourteen hours, forty-five minutes and thirty-two seconds, as indicated by their elapsed time, and established a new transcontinental record. Deducting twenty-two minutes and five seconds consumed in fueling in Witchita, Kansas, their one stop, their actual flying time was fourteen hours, twenty-three minutes and twenty-seven seconds, three hours, fifteen minutes and twenty-nine seconds better than the previous record time of seventeen hours, thirty-eight minutes and fifty-six seconds made by Captain Hawks, June 29, of last year.

Of course, the flight of the Lindberghs, Sunday, and that of Captain Hawks can not fairly be compared as achievements, for his was a non-stop flight, which necessitated the carrying of a much heavier load of gasoline than Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had to transport, but unless the capabilities of the Lindbergh machine, which made it possible to make an average speed of 172 miles an hour, are much greater than were those of the Hawks machine, Sunday's flight goes to show that the higher altitudes are preferable to the lower for speed and that a one-stop flight, avoiding the carrying of an unusually heavy load of gas, is speedier than a flight without a stop.

Crime Record Is a Burden.

The last two weeks have witnessed the closing of seven banks out in Williamson county, Illinois, the immediate cause of the suspensions, we are told in press dispatches, being frozen assets due to business conditions in the various community centers of the country.

The people of Williamson county were law-abiding for decades, and they are law-abiding today, the great majority of them by choice, the remainder by force of circumstances. Law is observed in its various divisions, and order prevails, but it was not always so. For five years or such a matter it was a hotbed of lawlessness. Its criminal element was in the saddle, and the excesses of the county's criminals, were augmented by those of the criminal elements of nearby counties.

The reign of lawlessness began with the Herrin massacre, back in 1922, a wholesale butchery, sickening in its details, in which something like twenty-five strike-breaking coal miners were slain. Citizens say the county might have recovered from this had it not had a long aftermath of crime. It was followed by klan and anti-klan disorders which cost not less than a score of human lives. S. Glen Young, a two-gun killer, had been brought in by the klan, so he asserted, to clean up the county. Soon thereafter six men were killed in an election affray, and what has been called the klan war became a war between wet and dry gunmen, which was brought to a climax when Young and a former deputy sheriff shot each other to death.

After the polling-place battle in 1926, the infamous Shelton and Birger gangs became active in a war for the control of the profits arising from rum-running, bootlegging and moonshining. This war, in which bombing planes and armored cars with machine guns were employed, was marked by dynamitings, kidnapings, death rides, murders and the burning of victims. It exacted a toll of at least a score of men and one woman—the wife of a highway policeman who was killed with her husband—the mayor of West City, who was shot down at his own door, being among the victims.

Then, after suffering outrages almost beyond description for five years, the decent citizenship of the county arose in its wrath and elected an honest and courageous sheriff, who fulfilled expectations by breaking up the gangs and cleaning up the county. But the damage had been done. The decent element had waited too long. During the five years Williamson county had gained a reputation for crime which kept new industries away and proved a handicap to the businesses of those it had, and that reputation clings to it and its leading communities still. It bobs up every time one of the county's municipalities goes out after a new enterprise, and this despite the fact that law reigns and order exists today throughout the county, as they have for the past three years.

The story of Williamson county and the cities and villages therein should carry a lesson to all political divisions, regardless of size. The decent citizenship of a community can not afford to temporize with open and notorious crime. It must put such crime down whenever and wherever it appears, or bear the consequences of its delay.

Special agents of the treasury department seized twelve trunks and two wooden cases brought in by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dodge, of Mill Neck, Long Island, when the Isle de France arrived in New York on its last westward trip, containing new wearing apparel and other dutiable goods valued tentatively at between $50,000 and $100,000. The news dispatch didn't state what kind of a shop they had planned to open.

Possibly Only a Gesture.

Despite the fact that a bill to discourage liquor-running into the United States, offered in the British house of commons by Isaac Foot, a Liberal member from Cornwall, and sponsored by Lady Nancy Astor, passed that body at its first reading by a vote of 215 to 142, a London cable states that it will not be heard of again this session, and perhaps never.

The Foot bill is along much the same line as that recently passed by the Canadian parliament in Ottawa—to stop Britons from running liquor into this country and thus "defeat the purpose of lawless men" who would lower the reputation of Great Britain; to prevent the misuse of the British flag and to bring together the people of Great Britain and the United States. The penalty, however, is widely different, as the British bill would amend the British merchant shipping act by giving the board of trade the right to cancel the certificate of any master, mate or engineer engaged in carrying liquor into this country.

That such a bill, if enacted into law, would prove a heavy blow to rum-running is easy of understanding, but it is not so easy—in fact, it is difficult—to understand how a bill under which penalties so severe may be inflicted would be given an affirmative vote of such a margin and then be dropped for this session at least and possibly for all time.

Such a course rather goes to show that the British house of commons is in one respect at least very much like some of our legislative bodies here in our home land, in that it is given to the making of an occasional gesture. Come to think of it, there have been gestures over here to corral dry votes with but a minimum chance of a single wet support.

It develops that, although the British air ministry has announced that England will take part in no more Schneider cup races, it will resume high-speed research work in the hope of attaining a speed of 400 miles an hour, the work to be conducted under the direction of Squadron Leader A. H. Orlebar, who last September at Calshot made the present world speed record of 357.7 mi. Those who have been following the [illegible] Lieutenant Williams will be reminded of the course being followed over here in air speed development; it's so different.

A Daily Sun Bath.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There is an old Italian proverb which says: "Where the sun does not go the doctor does." From the earliest times the sun has been known to give wondrous benefits to animals and to man, plants of the field, and to all living things.

The great benefits that lie in the sunlight as creators of health and in prevention of disease are beginning to be better known in the light of present day research. In the past the beneficial action of sunlight has been attributed in large to heat rather than to light. Now we know that the action of light in killing germs is of immense importance in promoting a healthy condition of the tissues in man and in animals.

Observe the domestic and farm animals and poultry. They seek out the sunlight. It adds to their content. Farm animals, as the farmer knows, require a certain amount of direct sunlight for physical well-being. And so does the human-being.

Sunshine is essential to life and health. A daily sun-bath would restore many a semi-invalid to health if properly taken. The trouble is that people will not take the time and trouble to get the direct rays of the sun.

If we only could have just the thing needful our houses would be filled with windows. They would be thrown open wide to let in the air and the full rays of the sun.

How many know the powerful disinfectant that the sun is? The germs of disease wither with long exposure to the sunlight. Take tuberculosis. The doctors tell us that in some localities this disease is on the increase. But tuberculosis is curable. With fresh air and sunshine good food and complete rest this disease can be put to rout.

Rickets is one of the most common diseases of childhood. Lack of fresh air and sunshine and undernourishment are responsible for thousands of cases annually. This deficiency disease has been successfully overcome by the right food and by cod liver oil, or "bottled sunshine," as it is called.

Now that the spring and summer months are upon us, there will be opportunity for every one to get out into the fresh air and God's sunshine. Be out-of-doors all you can. After the long winter months, many a child and thousands of adults need the stimulating and healing powers of the sunlight.

It is remarkable what recuperative and disinfecting powers lie in the sun's rays. For the well person, for the semi-invalid and for the bed-ridden patient the direct rays of the sun are life-giving. Diseases are benefited by it. You can not be physically fit unless you have it.

Much experimenting is going on with certain kinds of window glass which enable the ultra-violet rays, those life-giving rays of the sun, to penetrate. It is well known that ordinary window glass does not enable these rays to filter through. But as yet such glass is not in common use because of the expense.

Light therapy is being carried on, too, by means of the various lamps. All these are helpful, but rich and poor alike can have God's good sunshine at this time of the year.

Make a good resolution to be out-of-doors in the sunshine every day, every moment possible, in the coming months. Build for health and happiness.

Editorial Opinion.

THE PRIMARY FOUND NO CHAMPION.

It is highly significant that at a meeting of fifty Republican leaders from all parts of Michigan, not one person could be found who would rise and defend the primary election system. Every one present was convinced that a change is desirable and is necessary for the good of the public service. And at the conclusion of the discussion a committee was selected to make a study of the question of primary reform and agree upon recommendations for change in the law to be offered to the next legislature.

If the task of this committee were simply to decide upon what is the very best thing for the state, its job would be easy. It could recommend a whole-hearted return to the convention system. But there are practical difficulties, mostly political, in the way of persuading the lawmakers in Lansing to look with favor on so drastic a step at this time. Probably all that can be hoped for next year will be favorable consideration of a scheme to provide for universal pre-primary conventions.

The pre-primary convention, if adopted and made all it can be made, will be a gathering attended by regularly-chosen and responsible party representatives authorized to choose approved and indorsed candidates for places on the primary tickets. In the case of the state convention, the gathering will have power to draw up a party platform and nominate candidates who will agree to abide by that platform and acknowledge the authority of the gathering in return for the backing and indorsement its engages to provide them. As at present, "independent" aspirants for office can run in the primary as "self-starters." The field will be as wide open as ever.

The electorate, however, will have the advantage of a choice between candidates pledged to a certain platform and certain principles, and accountable to a tangible organization, and candidates running as free lances or as the proteges of bosses of little private cliques or factions.

How far the recently-appointed committee will go in suggesting a reform of this sort, and how far the legislature will act in case the committee goes the whole way, are naturally points that must remain in doubt for the present; but the further they go, the better for the state.—Detroit Free Press.

SENATOR "JIM" REED DISCONTENTED.

Former Senator "Jim" Reed, of Missouri, who has been visiting Washington and points East, has returned to his home in a rather soured state of mind. Nothing is quite right in this old world of ours. He refers to Mr. Hoover as "a misplaced cipher," and after this slighting remark about the president of the United States he delivers a savage attack at those Democrats in congress who have voted for protective features of the tariff bill. He says they have turned their backs on the ancient and fundamental principles of their party. "I hope," he cries, "that these gentlemen will be disciplined when they come forward for reelection. They have simply sold the party birthright for a mess of pottage."

The difficulty with Senator Reed is that he has not kept up with the procession in his own party. The last Democratic national convention was so careful of the language used on the tariff question that it might have almost been accepted by a Republican. And the presidential candidate of the party went out of his way to assure his hearers that there would be no tariff smashing while he was in the White House—if he should be chosen as its tenant. He said furthermore that he would not favor any tariff legislation that would take a nickel out of the pocket of any American workingman. There was only one inference to be taken from this—that he favored the protective principle. Moreover, some Democrats in congress have been voting for protective tariff laws for years. So why the sudden indignation of the man from Missouri?—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Science and Longevity.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

One of the great problems of life, to which science is today assiduously directing its attention, is longevity.

Is the natural span of human life seventy years with a possible extension to four score?

Is it possible, by "taking thought"—i. e., by scientific direction and therapy—to extend this brief span?

Will scientists ever be able to make the normal span of life a hundred years, for example—or an even greater number of years?

Those are the questions which are today absorbing the attention of scientists the world over.

On the basis of the scientific theories of Lamarck George Bernard Shaw has expressed faith in the certainty of vast expansion of the span of human life. In his huge drama "Back to Methuselah," there is one section "The Thing Happens." The thing which happens is that someone, naturally, lives to be 250 years or some great span of life—merely because of evolutionary appetite, the will to live that long.

It is now only a few years since Shaw wrote this play. And only recently has arrived the news from Peiping that one Li Ching Yun, who resides in the interior of Szechuan province, is living at the age of 250 years.

The thing happens!

Science awaits verification of Li Ching Yun's miraculous claim.

The theories of Steinach and Voronoff, called theories of rejuvenation, have really nothing to do with the problem of longevity. By the injection of hormones into the human sytem or the grafting in human beings of the glands of large gorillas or apes, a new vitality is temporarily imparted to aged people. But the effect is only temporary; it has no permanent influence in lengthening the span of human life.

Rejuvenation and longevitp are two distinct problems, although ultimately a connection between them may be established.

With reference to the problem of longevity, a recent remark of Dr. William H. Welch, of Johns Hopkins university, is particularly pertinent. It is not more knowledge which is needed at the present, he said, so much as a more universal application of what already exists.

The source of old age is believed by some scientists to reside in the tissues. Herein are first observed the symptoms of senility. Greater knowledge of how to care for these tissues should aid man considerably in his fight against the effects of old age.

Dr. D. Kotsovsky, of Kishineff, who supports this theory, recently said before the International Physiological congress at the Harvard Medical school:

"The tissues of the brain are the first to be affected by the lack of proper food and by the loss of sleep. They are the first to stop growing and the least inclined to regeneration. Their organization is so complex that it is difficult to give them the right sort of nourishment. Their health, furthermore, rests more upon other organs upon which they are dependent. They are likely gathering places for poisons from their own waste products.

"Sleep is highly important to these tissues not only during growth, but in their recovery from wear. Heredity is the most important factor of all in determining the quality and powers of the tissues and the organs upon which they depend. Sleep, nourishment and heredity should be the starting points for experiment in investigation of the problems of growing old."

Science is now eagerly studying the mechanism of death in order to counteract it with a therapy of life. Dr. Eusebio A. Hernandez, of Paris, goes so far as to claim that death may perhaps not be unavoidable!—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

"Jacqueline On Her Own"

DRAMATIC STORY OF ACTION, ROMANCE AND ADVENTURE

BY RICHARD STARR

(Copyright 1930, by the Author)

CHAPTER 23
Fears Are Allayed

The diamond necklace had vanished like a tale that is told.

Jacqueline stared into the empty flowerpot and then she stared into the eyes of Teddy Montrose, who was inclined to regard the whole thing as a joke, and quite ready to laugh.

"It's gone," she said hopelessly.

"What's gone?" demanded Teddy.

"The diamond necklace," said Jacqueline. "The necklace that was stolen from the night club. I stole it—don't you understand? You look as if you understand a bit. And—I've been depending on you. Oh, why don't you say something, Teddy? There's a detective coming in a minute and I shall be taken away. Oh, I thought you would be able to help me."

The tears were swimming in her eyes. This was an emergency which was a little beyond Teddy. If only he could fight somebody for her he would be sure of his ground. But this was a matter requiring brain power, in which Teddy had always been told he was deficient.

He pulled himself together. He asked for further particulars and she told him the story. How it had disappeared she could not tell him, because she did not know.

"I put it in that flowerpot," she said. "And now it is gone."

"That man Carew," replied Teddy gloomily. He's a scoundrel.

"But he couldn't have had anything to do with it," returned Jacqueline. "I tell you I looked in the pot after he had gone and the thing was still there."

"Did you look at it when you came home last night?"

"No. I did not want to disturb the earth too much, and I did not look at it again until this minute. And now it's gone."

"Then somebody must have been here and taken it after you went out yesterday," said Teddy, with deep wisdom. "Anyway, it's nothing to worry about. Why worry? You are well rid of the thing."

"But the police," said Jacqueline, "There is this man, Detective McAllister, of Scotland Yard. He knows and he is coming here to arrest me."

"Not a bit of it," returned Teddy, with hearty confidence. "If he had wanted to arrest you, he would have waited for you to return."

"What am I to do if he comes again, as I suppose he will?"

"Say nothing," advised Teddy. "Let him do the talking. That's always a good plan. In the present circumstances it seems the best thing to admit nothing at all about the diamonds. You did not steal them and you have not got them. If you stick to that I don't see how they can get past it. If they don't find the stolen goods on you or in your rooms, I don't see how they can prove anything."

Jacqueline determined to follow Teddy's advice and felt much bucked by his visit.

The grim Inspector McAllister did not come that day. In fact, two more days went by, and Jacqueline was just beginning to recover her normal spirits before he put in an appearance.

Her funds were rapidly dwindling and she was not only not enjoying herself but fretting most of the time.

"From this moment I intend to forget all about everything and enjoy myself, even if Teddy does stay away from me."

Incidentally, Teddy had not been near her for two days and this was contributing considerably to Jacqueline's depression, although she would not acknowledge it.

And no sooner had she come to this decision, than the red-headed page-boy appeared and announced Mr. McAllister.

She rose with one of her most charming smiles and bowed in response to Mr. McAllister's bow.

He was the antithesis of her mental picture of a Scotland Yard detective—short and stocky; a rubicund face, thick neck and lack lustre eyes.

"Sorry to trouble you, Miss Grey," he began, "but I shall not trespass upon your time for more than a few minutes. It's about the affair at Ciro's night club."

"The—the what?" asked Jacqueline incredulously.

"Just to save you time," he said softly in a voice that was a purr, "I will go over the points in this little matter. It will save asking questions.

"Of course, you are the young women we have been pretending to want."

"Pretending to want," murmured Jacqueline.

"Yes. You see it sometimes is necessary to issue a statement like that to throw people off the scent."

Jacqueline gazed at him steadfastly. Perhaps he was not as sleepy as he looked and she sat in silent amazement while he told her all her adventures and cited her own personal history.

"That is all quite right" was all Jacqueline could say when he concluded. This man seemed to know everything. Perhaps he knew about the diamonds too.

"Thank you, Miss Grey." Mr. McAllister courteously replied. You have show a readiness to assist police which does you credit. I shall not detain you more than another minute. The question I wish to ask is—where is your friend Mrs. Porter Mason?"

"I am afraid I cannot tell you," she said. "Mrs. Porter Mason did not return after the raid, and I have not seen her since. I had never seen her before I met her at this hotel. Are you suggesting that there is—er, anything discreditable about her?"

"Not at all. Not at all," said Mr. McAllllister. We are merely anxious to find Mrs. Porter Mason, because we believe she may able to help us."

That was all—not a word about diamonds. The interview concluded. Mr. McAllister had looked keenly into Jacqueline's face when he asked his question. and apparently he was satisfied that she was telling the truth.

He took his leave very politely, and although Jacqueline had an uncomfortable feeling that he knew more than he had revealed, she felt a flood of relief when the door closed on him.

There was no more need to worry about the stolen necklace. The thing was gone, and thank goodness that load was lifted from her mind. Also she had no need to worry about the police description of herself as a wanted woman. It was only a blind. The police did not want her.

So Jacqueline's troubles were cleared away, and there remained nothing for her to do but to have the best possible time she could while the rest of her money lasted, so that she would have something pleasant to think about when she went back to work for her living.

But where was Teddy Montrose? Why had he not been near her for the last two days, knowing her to be in serious trouble?

Could it be that he did not believe she was innocent?

Since halitosis never announces itself to the victim, you simply cannot know when you have it.

Men won't forgive this in a girl

How can you expect attention from others—especially from the opposite sex—when you have halitosis (unpleasant breath)?

Many a vacation and pleasure trip that otherwise would have been jolly and romantic has been a failure because of it.

Don't fool yourself that you never have halitosis. Because you simply cannot know when you are a victim. Halitosis does not announce itself. Unknowingly, you may offend.

Why take the chance at all? Simply use Listerine every day. Then, if you have halitosis, Listerine ends it. If you haven't—your mouth has had the benefit that Listerine always gives.

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and was very brite and fair, or it would have been if it had not been for my ant when she got to washing me after I had let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth. She went to work on me after breakfast like she was going to finish rubbing me out all at once, and leave only an empty place where I had been, but I bet if she had, the empty place would not of milked the cows and done all the work I have to do, and it would not of wore my pants and everything.

Annabelle Lee didn't get up to breakfast, and my mother said she hadn't been feeling well. We all went in the bedroom and gave her a once over when we fed our faces, and she was laying on her back and looked at us without seeing us, and we couldn't make her smile or anything, and my mother was scairt and foamed for the doctor, and I told the bunch outside that I wasn't going to Sunday school because my kid sister was sick, and they all said they wouldn't either. The doctor came in and took the clothes all off her stummick and felt all over it, and every time he felt of one side she would squinch up, and he stuck a thing in the end of her finger and she didn't even holler, and he got some of her blood on a piece of glass and said he was going to take it away and count it, and if there wasn't more than ten thousand bloods she wasn't very bad. When he had been gone a little while my mother went to the foam and he told her there were sixteen thousand bloods, and then my father foamed someone and a big car came and he wropped Annabelle Lee all up and we all got in the car and went to the hospital. Then a lady took some of her bloods over there and counted them, and there were twenty thousand and I heard the doctor tell my father he thought she had busted something and they brung a little wagon with sheets all over it and put Annabelle Lee on it and took her away and my mother and father put their arms around each other and stood and cried. Younissus and Feeble's fathers and mothers were all there by that time and the women were wiping their eyes all the time and telling my mother to cheer up. My grandfather chewed the most tobacco I ever say him chew and said, "It is hell!" And they brung her back in about an hour, and the doctor looked glad and said she hadn't busted whatever it was. And then I was sent home to milk the cows, and my father and mother stayed away all night.

This was Monday and Annabelle Lee is in the hospital yet. I cried in school and the teacher asted all about it and let me go home. No one laughed at me. I would have licked somebody if they had and then I wouldn't of felt so bad. My ant got my supper, and my mother is staying away all night again. I am glad I have got Jubilee. He is so sorry for me.

Hard-headed people boast that they have no use for imagination. Why not? All invention begins with imagination.

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Puzzled

I [illegible] upon my [illegible] emergencies [illegible] when I [illegible] Philip Veritzen's [illegible] and [illegible] standing [illegible] in the street just [illegible]. There was no possible [illegible] my employer [illegible] during the [illegible] passed, when we [illegible] the mysterious private detective, that I [illegible] to the [illegible] panic which seized me at sight of the car. And [illegible] around the nearest corner, down a block, turned another corner, and after another block, another, before I slowed down.

I am used to walking with [illegible] so I [illegible] my [illegible] pace, and though I had been [illegible] of people having to look at me in the streets I [illegible] there were no pedestrians on this street near enough to notice the precipitancy with which I had entered it. I felt vaguely as if I had reached a haven in this little back-water thoroughfare, and I again slowed my pace, this time to a saunter as I pulled myself together, and considered the [illegible] knowledge which had [illegible] to me.

Veritzen's Game?

So Philip Veritzen was [illegible] near to New York. We had thought him a continent away, as he had given us to infer when he had [illegible] in a rage because of the [illegible] of his matrimonial plans for his son.

I knew that he had several homes—mountain, seashore and pastoral lake country—so that he could indulge his fancy for any kind of scene or climate at any time. I did not know that one of them was in the Catskills, but this did not prove he had none in this section of the country. Had he been sulking in his "mountain fastness" during all this time, perhaps keeping in touch through some trusted envoy with the affairs which he ostensibly had entrusted to Harry Underwood and myself during his absence, which he said might last until his death?

I remembered that Lillian had scoffed at that melodramatic declaration. "Oh! This Veritzen can't stay very long away from his beloved Broadway," she had said in effect. "Now that the theatrical season is [illegible] on, he'll be turning up some [illegible]."

Running Away

Was he on his way to New York now? If so why had he not attempted to [illegible]? It would have [illegible] easier for Ottie, in that [illegible] to have caught up with the [illegible] of the tortuous dodging [illegible] I had taken.

Something which had been knocking at the door of my brain came [illegible] and I stopped short in the street with the astonishment of a sudden revelation.

Philip Veritzen had not wished me to see him! I remembered Ottie's [illegible] position over the wheel and the sudden screech of the brakes as he manoeuvred the car around the corner. My employer was running away from me even faster than I had fled from him.

This did not spell a return to New York. Or if it did, there must be some reason why he did not wish me to know he was in the Catskills. Yet why? Why? Why?

I [illegible] my mental compass in the [illegible] to find an answer to the question. The only possible answer involved an action so fantastic, so bizarre and so crassly ill-bred on my employer's part that I could not give it credence even though I was angry enough at him.

After my first half of astonishment I had been walking aimlessly, absorbed in the questions engendered by the appearance of the Veritzen car and chauffeur. When I finally decided to put the whole puzzling business aside until I could talk it over with Harry Underwood, who shared with me that ultimate responsibility for the Veritzen dramatic productions during the great man's absence, I looked around at the shabby quarter in which I found myself and realized that I had no idea where I was or how far I had wandered since I took to my heels at sight of the Veritzen car.

Hazily I remembered that I had turned almost every corner which presented itself and had traveled a zigzag course, but I had made no mental notation of street names and I had not the slightest idea how to go back to the corner where I had turned off my course.

It was with a shamefaced grin that I took Mr. Train's despised map from my bag and looked at it, checking back on the blocks I had covered while walking along the main boulevard the name of which I had remembered. I had taken no notice of the cross streets, noting only the number of them which I had to traverse and the name of the last one where I was to turn over to the street upon which the Trains lived. There was but one thing to do, of course, and that was to inquire of the next passerby the nearest way back to that corner, and I put Mr. Train's map in my bag with a mental apology to that kindly, bustling gentleman and a little paean of thankfulness for his efficiency.

WASHINGTON UPSETS PRE-SEASON DOPE

FIGHTING FOR RANK IN FIRST DIVISION

Yankees Lose Fourth Straight Major League Start; A's Win Third in Row.

BY HUGH S FULLERTON JR
Associated Press Sports Writer

THE Washington Senators [illegible] taken a place in the front rank of the [illegible] which have started the year [illegible] the dope. The [illegible] season [illegible] Braves [illegible] left [illegible].

Brown was the only one [illegible] hurler [illegible] his two [illegible] this year and to win them [illegible]. He held the Boston Red Sox [illegible] last Tuesday and yesterday scored his second triumph by [illegible] the New York Yankees [illegible] 6. The triumph put the Senators in [illegible] for second place in the American league instead of in the second division where the dope says they belong.

The Yankees losing their fourth straight game sent Sam Byrd in to replace Allen Cooke in the outfield with the announcement from Manager Shawkey that he will remain there against left handed pitching but the change brought no improvement.

Eight pitchers appeared on the mound for the second time at the start of yesterday's six games and only Brown and Harry Seibold of the Boston Braves remained to the end. Seibold won his game from the Brooklyn Robins 7 to 2 as two Brooklyn errors and a home run with loaded bases provided six runs in the seventh inning.

Hudlin Beats Uhle

Young Willis Hudlin of Cleveland and [illegible] the [illegible] in a fine duel and [illegible] [illegible] Walter Johnson's [illegible] Lefty Grove [illegible] Ed MacFayden [illegible] Boston Red Sox [illegible] MacFayden [illegible] started for the world's [illegible] Jack Quinn.

The New York and Philadelphia National league clubs which have started [illegible] as if to revive the title [illegible] staged another [illegible] yesterday the Giants won [illegible] 2 to 1. Carl Hubbell held the Phillies to four hits while the Giants reached Old Pete Alexander for the greater part of 10 but still it took a home run by Mel Ott to win the game.

A similar battle between the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds marked the remaining National league struggle. The Cubs won 4 to [illegible] after Cincinnati had scored three runs in one inning off Fred Blake.

THAT Wesley Fesler All American football end of Ohio State is a great Y booster. See Hale of the local Y is trying to engage the star end to speak to the local boys. Hale was in charge of Fesler and his crowd for five years in the Youngstown Y M C A. Wonder if that has anything to do with Fesler's ability?

THAT Chuck Osterholt made so much noise while in Camp B here Uhler of Hepburn one time that the citizens of that burg reported to the local Y that the whole bunch of campers were more than slightly polluted. Osterholt denies the charge. HE WOULD!

THAT the chief worry of Elmer Shaw Asst Sec of the city baseball commission is the securing of umpires for the coming season. It is reported that the commission will equip the arbiters with steel helmets and bullet proof vests this year. Yeah and why not give each one a pair of glasses?

Things just don't seem to break right with Duane Church Y Indus basketball luminary when his team travels to Ann Arbor Mich. The first time they made the trip Church ran his car into the ditch on the return trip. The second time he came home with a first class shiner on his left eye. Aren't you glad the season is over Duanna?

TRIBE HURLED TO WIN OVER DETROIT BY WILLIS HUDLIN

Blanks Tigers To Gain 2-0 Victory; Cincinnati Falters, Loses to Cubs.

By The Associated Press

DETROIT Mich April 21 Willis Hudlin blanked the Detroit Tigers here Sunday while a Cleveland pinch batsman drove in the runs which won the game 2 to 0.

Detroit threatened several times but Hudlin was master of the situation on these occasions.

Burnett batted for [illegible] in the seventh after Hodapp and Joe Sewell had singled and drove out a two bagger scoring Falk and Hodapp.

Up until the seventh inning when Cleveland got two runs however the game was fairly nip and tuck. After Burnett drove in Falk and Hodapp in the seventh Hudlin bent [illegible] toward third filling the bases. But Porter flied out J Sewell fouled out and Jamieson fanned ending that half. In Detroit's half of the inning the Tigers made two hits but could get nobody home on them. Rice doubled and McManus got a hit. Then Rogell flied out and Hudlin fanned the next two men the last on with three pitched balls. Also in the eighth Detroit secured two hits but no runs.

Hudlin's work in Sunday's game was watched with interest by Cleveland fans as some of them were skeptical of his form this season. Manager Peckinpaugh however said at the outset of the season that he was relying upon Hudlin for some good pitching and fully expected it. Hudlin's pitching was only a part of his performance as his fielding stood out in several spots during the game. In the first he caught Johnson off second after that [illegible] had doubled. He also threw out several batters who sent them through the box area.

REDS FALTER

The Reds failed to make good on two opportunities to score additional runs and the Cubs won the second game of the series 4 to [illegible] making it all even. Paid attendance was 18,975. Blake who went the route for the Cubs on the mound was wild throughout but was effective in the pinches with the exception of the fourth inning when the Reds counted three times. Critz, Allen and Sukeforth singled in rapid succession in the fourth and Walker sacrificed. Blake passed Meusel and Kelly sacrificed to add another tally. Again Blake faltered and walked Cuccinello to fill the bases. He walked in a run when he was unable to get it over for Ford who walked.

The Cubs counted one in the first on a double and two singles, two in the sixth on a double triple and single and won out in the seventh on Blair's triple to right and Cuyler's double.

In the seventh one run behind Ford led off with a single and Heilmann batting for Johnson duplicated Ford's feat. Hartnett however caught Ford napping off second to kill the rally. Walker led off in the sixth with a double but was forced out on Meusel's bounce to English.

YOU SEE THE PICTURE OF IT - IT WAS SO BRILLIANT THEY HAD TO PHOTOGRAPH IT THROUGH A PIECE OF SMOKED GLASS - WE KNOW IT'S GENUINE BECAUSE THERE NEVER WAS ANOTHER DIAMOND LIKE THE GREAT MOGUL - IT COULD NOT BE DUPLICATED - SO WHEN WE SAY WE HAVE A STONE JUST LIKE THIS - THERE IS NO ARGUMENT -
WHAT A BEAUTY - BUT HOW CAN YOU PROVE THAT THIS IS THE GENUINE MOGUL DIAMOND - HOW DO YOU KNOW THAT IT IS?
IT WAS STOLEN FROM THE MOGULS BY A HINDOO MAGICIAN WHO HYPNOTIZED THE ROYAL GUARD IN CHARGE OF IT INTO BELIEVING THAT HIS WHOLE RACE WOULD BE DESTROYED IN TWENTY FOUR HOURS - UNLESS HE DELIVERED THE STONE TO HIM IMMEDIATELY - THE STONE WAS KEPT IN THE FAMILY FOR CENTURIES AND CENTURIES - BEING HANDED DOWN FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER - IT WAS KEPT ON AN ISLAND IN A VAULT COMPLETELY SURROUNDED BY BROKEN GLASS - THERE WAS A PENALTY OF DEATH TO ANYONE CAUGHT WHO WAS NOT BARE FOOTED - ITS HIDING PLACE REMAINED A SECRET FOR OVER A THOUSAND YEARS - UNTIL THE REIGNING KING HEARD OF THE TREASURE AND ONLY BY TORTURE WAS HE ABLE TO LOCATE IT -
AND HOW DID YOU COME IN POSSESSION OF IT?
TO FORCE THE OLD FELLOW WHO POSSESSED IT TO REVEAL ITS HIDING PLACE THE KING ORDERED HIS HEAD SHAVED AND A CROWN OF PLASTER TO ENCIRCLE IT - INTO THIS HE POURED BOILING OIL - HE THEN SENT A LARGE FORCE TO THE ISLAND AND ON RETURNING WITH IT THEY WERE SET UPON BY BANDITS - WHO STOLE IT FROM THEM - IT WAS NEVER RECOVERED - LATER THE BANDITS WERE KILLED - THEIR CHIEF CAPTURED AND PUT IN PRISON WHERE HE DIED - HE ALWAYS CLAIMED HE KNEW NOTHING OF THE DIAMOND - WHILE SHOWING A PARTY THROUGH THE OLD MUSTY PRISON SOMETIME AGO - ONE OF THE GUIDES CUT HIS HAND ON SOMETHING BURIED IN THE WALL IN ONE OF THE DARKEST DUNGEONS - HE DUG INTO THE PLASTER - AND CAN YOU IMAGINE HIS SURPRISE WHEN THIS GREAT BIG DIAMOND FELL AT HIS FEET? Reports of Crop Benefits from Rains Send Wheat Price Down.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, April 21—Material [illegible] in wheat [illegible] today [illegible] from [illegible] chiefly on reports of beneficial rains in sections of the Southwest and West. Forecasts of [illegible] temperatures were [illegible]. Opening [illegible] changes to ¾ [illegible] lower, wheat [illegible] underwent a general [illegible]. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise easy, with [illegible] changed [illegible] Saturday's [illegible] closing.

Wheat prices [illegible] accompanied suggestions that the United States wheat [illegible] on May 1 would [illegible] about [illegible] bushels against a [illegible] average of only [illegible] bushels. Estimates were current that domestic visible stocks of [illegible] would approximate 82,000,000 [illegible] compared with a [illegible] year average of [illegible] bushels. World shipments for the last week, however, were relatively small, indicating a falling-off in the amount of wheat on ocean passage, with the total afloat now less than half the quantity shown a year ago.

With most Europe markets closed on account of a post-Easter holiday, overseas demand for wheat from North America was reported poor. Meanwhile, official and private crop advices from Europe told of favorable conditions for winter grain, although emphasizing lack of subsoil moisture in central and southeastern Europe. Germany in particular reported the condition of winter wheat and rye as well above the usual average.

callers during the day, except to confer for a short time with Martin W. Littleton, noted lawyer, who will be the son's attorney.

Littleton said the youth's defense would be as outlined at young Maxon's preliminary hearing Saturday, that the 20-year-old student and newspaper worker, admittedly drunk, became involved in a brawl at his lodging house after he entered the landlady's room by mistake.

He will assert that he fought with three or four other roomers and that in the general row the aged man was hit with a chair, causing his death.

Bishop Maxon was accompanied here by George Morris, a newspaper editor of Memphis, and Mrs. Morris.

"If any wrong has been done it must be righted," was the only comment of Bishop Maxon on his arrival in New York.

TOLEDO, O., April 21—Satisfied of the identity of the three persons who drowned in Maumee river early Friday when their automobile plunged through the opened draw of a bridge police have halted their search for the bodies.

A key wrapped up in a handkerchief and fitting the door to the apartment of Gertrude Chadwick, 21, identified her and her cousin, Lillian Burdock, 19 and Thomas Knighton, 22, as the victims, police said. The three had been missing since Thursday night.

The automobile was raised from the river bottom Saturday, but a search which was not stopped until last night failed to disclose their bodies.

2 MORROW COUNTY MEN ARE CLAIMED

University of Cincinnati he was admitted to the bar in 1926. Following his admission to the bar he was appointed city solicitor of Cardington and held that office at the time of his death. In 1927 he was appointed prosecuting attorney of Morrow county by Judge W. P. Vaughn to fill the unexpired term of Howard Conaway who had resigned. He was elected to the same office in 1928 on the Republican ticket.

World War Veteran

He was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Blue Lodge at Cardington, of the Shrine, Columbus, and the Commandery in Marion. He was also a member of the Shrine band, Columbus. He had been a member of the Methodist church at Cardington for a number of years. He was a World war veteran serving overseas. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Lucy Myers and one sister, Miss Leonie Myers of Cardington.

Mr. Chilcote was the son of Reuben and Susan Chilcote. He was born in Harmony township and lived on the farm of his parents there until after his marriage to Myrtle Ulery. For three years following his marriage he resided in Marion, then in Cardington for a short time, after which he lived in Mt. Gilead for the remainder of his life.

Was Sheriff, Postmaster

In 1908 he was elected sheriff of Morrow county on the Democratic ticket and was reelected for a second term of two years in 1910. Shortly after President Wilson's reelection in 1916 he was appointed postmaster and served until the appointment of Frank Miller by President Harding in 1921. Since that time he has been associated with hotel and resort management at Buckeye Lake. Last year an infection necessitated the amputation of his right leg.

He is survived by his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Ruth Moler, of Columbus; and two brothers, Morgan Chilcote, of Mt. Gilead, and William Chilcote, Harmony township. He was a member of the Masonic lodge.

PARKER REJECTED BY SENATE COMMITTEE

Final Repudiation Regarded as Virtually Sure as Result of Committee Action.

to the senators the opposition to Parker was based entirely on "matters of record" and that explanations from the jurist would serve no good purpose.

The committee's action tossed the appointment back into the senate where it probably will be acted upon later in the week unless President Hoover should withdraw the nomination. Under the circumstances, if acted upon it undoubtedly will be rejected.

Word of the committee's action was immediately flashed to the White House, where it was received with surprise.

President Firm

It was immediately stated, on behalf of the president, that he had no intention of withdrawing the nomination, and that so far as the White House is concerned Judge Parker is the candidate and the responsibility for his rejection will rest on the senate.

Judge Parker, it was suggested, may himself initiate action to prevent rejection by voluntarily withdrawing his name from consideration. This would relieve the White House of any embarrassment and pave the way for President Hoover's submitting another name.

It is understood that friends of Judge Parker will advise him to do [illegible] within the next few days.

THE NEW MAYTAG roller-water remover with enclosed, positive-action, automatic drain

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor

THE NEW roller water remover of the NEW Maytag was developed at a cost of more than $290,000. The enclosed, positive-action, automatic drain shunts the water directly into the tub from which the clothes are wrung without spilling or splashing. The soft top roll hugs the lower hard roll, removing all the water evenly from every part of the clothes ... yet presses no wrinkles into the clothes. Buttons, snaps and ornaments go through safely.

The NEW Maytag is the first washer to offer a one-piece, cast-aluminum tub and a NEW quiet, enclosed, lifetime, oil-packed direct drive.

PHONE for a trial washing with the NEW Maytag. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it. Divided payments you'll never miss.
